Casa Colón (Old Hotel Colon)

Plaza del Punto, s/n

With late 19th century modernist and colonial features, Columbus House was initially planned as a hotel for the executives from the mining enterprises operating in the city. Many historians say Hotel Colón was the first place of accommodation with electricity in Spain.

Events were held here to celebrate the 4th Centennial of the Discovery of the Americas in 1892. It is currently the site of the Ibero-American Cinema Festival and the Municipal Archives.

Santuario de la Cinta

Avda. Manuel Siurot

The home of the city's patroness saint, Columbus prayed here following his first voyage to give thanks for the success of the expedition. The admiral and his mariners feared for their lives while facing a fierce ocean on their return. Columbus had promised to pray in this sanctuary if they arrived at their destination safely.

Bust of Inca Garcilaso

Columbus House Gardens

A Peruvian chronicler of Spanish descentance. He's considered to be the first mestizo from the Americas in Spain. His bust symbolizes Spain's mixed heritage with the people from the Americas.

Monument to Alonso Sánchez de Huelva

Jardines del Muelle, s/n

This work by León Ortega is located behind the Port Authority building. This mariner and merchant was born in Huelva in the mid-15th century. According to tradition, he reached the Americas before Christopher Columbus did in 1492. Therefore, he's known as the "Prenaut".

Christopher Columbus Monument

Plaza de las Monjas (Nun Square)

Inaugurated in 2011, it represents the Genoese navigator with a flag in one hand looking towards the sea, symbolizing his connection to the Discovery of the Americas.

Located in Plaza de las Monjas, this work by Rodríguez Picón pays homage to Columbus and Huelva as the origin of this discovery.

Columbus Monument Avenida Francisco Montenegro

This sculpture by North American artist Gertrude V. Whitney represents Christopher Columbus, the man who, alongside sailors from Huelva, discovered the Americas.

Fuente de las Naciones (Fountain of the Nations)

Paseo de la Ría

At the end of Paseo de la Ría, the Fountain of Nations is one of the city's historical identity marks.

This reconstruction of the old Fountain (Bank) of the American Nations featuring a drinking water fountain is a place of relaxation for the locals. It displays the Spanish coat of arms, as well as the coats of arms of ten American countries.
